Nostredame on Work Ethic

Public Education 4

NATHAN the Judge: The present capitalist model is very unstable to the economy to be working under a Congress or legislature as it does not support talent that Jesus Christ asked to develop talent.

The author says, the goal of life is “To get a grant or get a contract and prosper.” If you have a job, you are successful and what if you do not have a job, you are not successful? You are shunned?

But in truth, those who are the most creative need to be on an ongoing salary.

Nancy of Oregon: See how it was for Erich Fromm. He is one of the foremost thinker and writer on criminology, writing the 700 pages of Anatomy of Destructiveness on necrophilia and sadism of Hitler and Stalin. He had been placed on a set publishing schedule by the publisher and he could not meet it.

Erich Fromm Ascended or EMANZIANDIE: I was not able to write every month. For you to spearhead an area that no one has ever tried, you need to do research, you need to live life in the old way, in the new way. As a writer of this criminology or necrophilia and in-depth work on the psyche, it could be 9 more years before I could produce the next book. I wrote about Sigmund Freud however even then I had not known he was a victim of child abuse. so you see, it does require a spinning of the Threefold Flame! As in this state of listening grace, you see into those areas of creative being that in the business world you are not given this opportunity by meeting their deadlines.

Nancy of Oregon: Erich Fromm is saying something of a great import. What Saint Germain said to the Queen Elizabeth of England recently was that he is finding that he can no longer produce works as he did as Shakespeare— he being its author of the Shakespearian plays.

He said that he had to grow out of the genre, of the many murders, assassinations.

NATHAN the Judge: In the age in which Erich Fromm lived it was one with practical Karen Horney, with the Nazi crimes being prosecuted.

Erich Fromm Ascended or EMANZIANDIE: We termed it a movement in humanism which looking back it was the wrong word and this was in light of the Nazi crimes. A better word is divine worship. But the Germans were atheists, the French agnostics from Napoleon, so our work will not go far now as we did not have the right terminology to spearhead a new initiative that would last into the centuries. It degenerated into the study of animals instead of the divine nature of man to never ever have again the genocides of Hitler and Stalin.

Nancy of Oregon: Te writers in the times of Napoleon's time, was recognized as such— writers needed to be on a salary to interpret history, writers on salaries as needed to write history. Today you do not see this!

Marquis Fontanes: So Napoleon did fund the writers as I suggested to him to do. They did write books on history and had it not been so, you do not have history recorded.

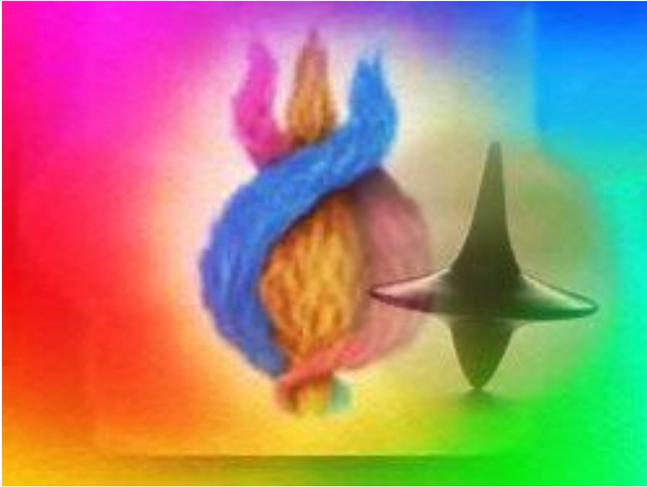

NOSTREDAME: You do not have the writing for trends of behavior especially in economics that Walter Lippemann had been one. We have not seen one such as he since.

Nancy of Oregon: This research ongoing goes for every area of life.

NOSTREDAME: In all areas of research—scientific, engineering research. Research on the weather, research of the type of Walter Lippmann especially to see what are the trends in human behavior and public opinion to adjudicate common law. With the concomitant adjunct to divine regulation of the science thereof.

ANDREA SELESTOW: For not having a job, contract or grant, those who have talent do not think of themselves as being talented and worthwhile and are shunned for having a garage full of unfinished projects that are unfunded. They often become idle for loneliness as they have not the group setting to talk to other scientists and engineers.

MOTHER MARY: And this ought not to be, but grants are given to these few talented people who would turn every area of society around and spearhead every area whether in transportation or aerospace but they must follow the injunctions of the religious life—that they are not a law unto themselves, and do not waste their time but find how they might develop their talent which does require the society to support them in salaries and means.

And here it does not mean that the United States support science defectors only but the Eagles themselves! As they cannot produce as much as an Eagle who already has seen the use of the Threefold Flame, who already accepts that he has a God given talent that must be used in liberty and freedom.

Harry Luce: Unless the United States can develop talent more judiciously in the economy, how might it go forward? It is as Mother Mary said about Michael Jackson, that he was for his talent basically a failure as his talent was not used.

MOTHER MARY: Michael Jackson was playing Chopin at the musical festivities on the inner heavenly realms wearing his spacesuit outfit. And this is the talent he was never able to bring about. Instead, he relied on the graces of Motown publisher, and what could be brought in as income, and not so much for the society or government to see a talented person for what he had, and to develop this talent.

This is also the fault of the cities. That they do not fund the money for the arts to make for the highest standard to be as the National Standard.
