

US National Standard in Culture

11

Hallucinate Drugs

Recently I was stopped by marijuana-deathdrug smokers. These street purveyors acted no different that Iraq prison guards.

They said to me, "Watch your step."

"I said, stop, watch your step."

"Do you understand! Watch your step!"

What these punks do, is not only jihad, it is not only talking down to the squares. What this is, is the officiousness of those smoking.

ANDREA SELESTOW: They are punks.

Nancy of Oregon: Smoking marijuana-deathdrug makes them officious. They are the arbiter of their life and the life of everyone on the streets. They are now emblazoned to tell you how to live your life. They are ipso facto the arbiter and act officiously without even invitation.

ANDREA SELESTOW: If you happen to be in their way, watch out, they will clear you out in no time. They are overbearing bureaucrats on the street. In the home.

STEVEN ECKL: What is this officiousness? It is a "I only believe in what I want to believe in."

The indolent mind seeks atheism through their only self-believing in our democracy.

MOSES: Atheists choose to not believe in God, they choose not to believe whatever you say—even if it is truth. It could be foggy outside and they will not believe it, they will say that it is what you personally make of the weather.

Nancy of Oregon: They are hell-bent or seek to be as destructive as punks as possible that they are using freedom on choosing to not believing a thing you say, but counter it, lambaste it, distort what you said that may be reasonable or of truth, for the hell-of-it.

JARVIS RAYMOND: They choose in freedom, and it is nihilistic in many cases, it is most often contempt of law and order.

MOSES: The atheism of the drughead is to be seeing god in the drug inside of their head. They are now God.

MOTHER MARY: This is the great danger of hallucinogenic drugs, that you see yourself as God, you portray yourself as God to others.

JARVIS RAYMOND: It requires an adherence to God as righteousness to live in a free society. It is best if these choose to use freedom in this manner, to go to the electric chair.

MOSES: I would add killing and sadism to that "high."

"All hallucinate drugs are poison."

Mother Mary