

King David Story Extortion

Q: What happened in the false story of King David and Bathsheeba in the gospels?

Nancy of Oregon: The Jews knew about reincarnation. They asked Jesus: Are you Elias come again. Jesus was asked as the Messiah: Are you Joshua come again, are you King David come again, on and on of the lineage. They knew he was the Messiah.

The point here is that this is totally irrelevant in the Teachings. The only embodiedment you can be sure of for Jesus Christ is the one he was an emperor who had helped one million souls to ascend on Atlantis.

The past life information is more reincarnation story material for you to ponder on learning from backdirect. Otherwise what you see is that people truly get weird, strangely obnoxious and diabolical in their saying: Was he having sex and had a family with Mary Magdalene? Did he wear brown sandals? We wear white sandals now, so he is not a good person. The necessity to see Jesus the Messiah outside of the context of the current time is imperative for the racial prejudice alone.

ANDREA of Chicago: What we were taught was that when you are on the other side, in heaven, in between embodiedments, you try on anyone's embodiedment. If you say, Elizabeth Taylor was Cleopatra, you would be correct. But there would have been 100 Cleopatra's just from one generation alone. So this is where the lives of the saints previously are not of much merit except where there is a teaching involved. You can try on any embodiedment if you like in more than 3-D, it is as if you were there.

We know the lives of El Morya. However, we did not know all of his lives, and this proved to be a fiasco.

JESUS CHRIST: What happened was that in order for me to be Messiah, I had to either use force or to work out a deal with the Jews. Obviously I did not want to gather an army to fight them so I went with the extortion deal. And so they compromised with the Sadducees, and to some extent, the Pharisees, that they had worked out a deal with the "phony" Messiah me, that they would mar his so-called lifetime as King David with the Bathsheeba story.

MOTHER MARY: Only then could he be left alone in his ministry.

Typist: He had 3 years, what would you expect?

JESUS CHRIST: In some ways it worked alright, as it allowed me to go ahead without bloodshed. However as scripture was tampered with, then the lineage considers what King David to have done was kosher unfortunately.

FATHER MALACHI: Even I wrote a book on this King David story thinking there was some truth to this, and I regret writing the book, but it was a let-down to find out there is nothing substantially holy or of any value to have this in the Bible which is a holy book.

MOSHE: I wrote the Bible, I did not write this! I am made to understand that there is not a single translation—Aramaic or Greek— that does not have this falsification in writing.
