

Mother Mary Buds in Gifted World

It was a delightful day whenever I noted some particular God-quality which I wished to manifest in the boy Jesus blossoming in full flower within his gifted world. O, I knew full well that the buds were there, that the flame upon his heart's altar was kindled from on high, and that he willed to do whatever would be revealed to him as the Father's Will. Yet, I could not escape delight in seeing the unfoldment of each tiny change, effectively readying him for the arduous days ahead. Likewise, I wait with patience and love the unfoldment of that wonderful life radiance that beats your heart.

O divine ones, I wait for each one, I wait for all men to be as free as beloved Jesus became. I hold for all life the sacred immaculate concept.

The eternal momentums externalized by God beings who have entered the world of form in like manner to all humanity, only to overcome all human tendencies by God's power to change, are still available to mankind because these eternal momentums, once externalized, remain forever within the reach of those who follow in Their footsteps. Men and women today can have the gracious and unlimited assistance which we once manifested in our personal journeys toward attainment. This, our grace, we freely give to those who ask it.

Dear Hearts, we dwell and abide within the heart of Perfection and can draw unlimited quantities of universal love directly from God as in the wonderful sounds you hear of the music of the spheres; but the mighty momentums we have already drawn forth in our long journeys toward the ascension is made available today to those who seek to tread the same path Christ once walked. How willing we are to share these blessings with you can be easily determined if you will but persist in asking us for the use of this mighty spiritual reservoir until you become wholly aware that your own beings have contacted the Radiance.
