

Ascended Masters

The antbear is an anteater, a nocturnal animal not seen in the daytime. If you have ever seen one, it is a frightful sight. It has small nocturnal eyes, a pig's snout, sharp ears, goat legs, a hump back. The reaction in seeing this is as if you saw a rat running across your living room.

The demon "SPP night antbear" is found in those who follow after the night SPP (Suern Persecution Priests). These live at night and avoid the day people and day activities.

You know a rat hides. When you have the hiding, whether it is in from living at night time and not the day time, it is not only escaping through the hours, it is alcohol, it is a rock and roll bar with loud blaring music.

These jar the heart vibrations, it is how one begins to lose heart sensitivity. One's vocabulary becomes slurred. The words are slurred after awhile. One's voice loses its lilt and the eyes become darker by the day in this breakdown of the heart. The energy flows downward with the rock music, the energy of the chakras become distorted in these patterns. It is as you might say, what is day turns to night, what is light turns to dark. What is sheep turns to goat. What is being in the winner's race towards the ascension is the rat running away down the rat hole. This happens by the wharf, by the astral seas where the drunken sailors frequent the bars.
