The groundhog or whistle pig is a hibernating animal. It will dig and create burrows for the winter season. They live in the northern climates. In the process, they destroy machinery and building foundations.

The demon "Territorial pig" is the mission of the false hierarchy imitation groups. They seek to build a self-sustaining community and to take territory from other churches and establish dominance. See how they attack with their broadcasting of decrees when you are not able to. They in their decree work place the grids and forcefields over the community of light. They seek to destroy the building foundation of Christ Church.

You might say this is the animal of the imitation organizations and the breakaway groups such as the Protestant Church initially. It is the demon that would take territory through destruction such as the groundhog.

Those with the demon have shown forth impudence. They will not stop their decrees and rituals. They do not dissolve their organizations. One can see this in Vatican II. That those who took an adverse position to tradition would not leave until having established their position as dominance. They do not go down without a fight either, as you say.

The groundhog or whistle pig will use its two large incisors and front claws to defend the burrows as they are territorial animals and seek to establish dominance.
