The Book of Daniel describes a vision in which the prophet beholds many beasts, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly. They have great iron teeth that devours and breaks in pieces. The beasts have feet to stamp. And the beasts have horns.

Daniel reads: Behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking great things.

What Daniel saw was that man took upon themselves the thinking and actions of the beasts.

Beasts are the conglomerate of chaos and violence. They exists as grids and forcefields of danger that "float" in the atmosphere and seek which man they might influence to be causing murder and mayhem.

Daniel describes how he saw Sanat Kumara. He says: "The Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire.

A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him. Thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him. The judgment was set, and the books were opened.

I beheld him doing this till the thrones were cast down."

Sanat Kumara Comes to the Earth

Sanat Kumara is known as the lord of the vineyard in the judgment at the end of a long harvest who binds the tares grown among the good wheat and burns them. When Sanat Kumara returns to judge your life, in the judgment in what you have been doing with your threefold flame, do you separate out the tares sown in your own garment?

Do you welcome the Lord Sanat Kumara into your life?
